Widow of Museum's Founding Director Dies

Camilla Hoes Pope

Camilla Hoes Pope, a caring and principled lady who lived the last four decades of her life in Fredericksburg and Stafford County, passed away on November 14, 2015.

Camilla was born the second of five children in Berlin, Germany, on January 27, 1928. She grew up in a happy, well-to-do family, until the Second World War tore the family apart. Her father was an important banker in Berlin, but no friend of the Nazi government. Camilla and her younger siblings fled to Silesia to escape the bombing of Berlin, and from there fled again from the Russian invasion back to Berlin shortly before the end of the war in 1945. From 1946 on she studied German and English in Berlin and became a teacher at the secondary level.

Under a teacher exchange program between the U.S. and Germany, Camilla came to Scranton, Pennsylvania on a Fulbright Scholarship. She met her first husband, Laurence Gouverneur Hoes, when she was visiting Fredericksburg one weekend. She encountered Laurence, the great-great grandson of President James Monroe and founding director of the James Monroe Museum, as he was closing the building for the night. He reopened the building to give Camilla a personal tour, and then asked her to dinner!

The James Monroe Museum and Memorial Library, located in historic downtown Fredericksburg, Virginia, is the largest repository in the country for artifacts and documents related to the fifth president of the United States. The museum was first opened in 1927 by Monroe descendants as a place to house their own personal collections, which had been handed down through generations of the family. Eventually, the museum and its extensive collections were turned over to the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the museum is now administered by the University of Mary Washington.

The museum belongs to the American Association of Museums, the American Association for State and Local History, and the Virginia Association of Museums. It is also on the National Register of Historic Places and is a National Historic Landmark.
